Will Kintish, considered a world authority on business networking, will deliver a seminar in Malta. After running over 3000 hours of business networking training and giving training presentations to over 30,000 people, Will Kintish aim to show how to generate new business leads the easy way.

The main aim in this seminar is to help delegates become more confident and effective business networkers by divulging the secrets to help delegates destroy all those fears of working the room, helping delegates to be in control, break the ice and start a conversation with strangers.

Above all this seminar will ensure that delegates leave every event with a potential business opportunity, revealing to them how to raise their profile and meet more people.

MGI Finconsult Ltd, believes that in every person there is the necessary potential to become an effective networker benefiting from the great advantages that networking can provide. Mr. George Farrugia, one of the directors, was lucky to go through the Kintish experience whilst on a conference in Brussels two years ago. Discussions about a possible presentation in Malta soon followed, but with Mr. Kintish's busy schedule, it took two years to find the appropriate opening in his diary.

The Kintish Experience will be held in Malta at the Westin Dragonara Hotel on 16th February between 0900CET and 1700CET. In view of the methods used by Mr. Kintish, attendance will be limited and acceptance is on first come first served basis.

For more information about the seminar contact the secretariat at seminar@mgimalta.com or call on 2180 2044 or 9949 3668.
